Portfolio discussion

Exhibit B: Trailing Twelve-Month Contributors and Detractors as of 30 September 2022⁴

Winners	Performance contribution	Ave. weight	Losers	Performance contribution	Ave. weight
Glencore	0.5%	2.1%	Comcast	-1.7%	3.2%
LPL Financial	0.3%	1.0%	Meta Platforms	-1.7%	2.2%
Delivery Hero (convertible)	0.3%	0.3%	Alphabet	-1.6%	5.6%
Swire Pacific	0.2%	0.6%	Charter	-1.6%	2.2%
PG&E	0.1%	0.6%	Citigroup	-0.9%	2.0%

In the last twelve months, the Fund's top five performers contributed 1.4%, net, to its return, while its bottom five detracted 7.5%, net.

We addressed the performance of Glencore and the Comcast and Charter cable investments in the Q2 2022 commentary (please contact Nedgroup Investments if you would like to request a copy).

LPL Financial has benefited from a rise in interest rates, specifically short-term rates, as well as continued strong client asset flows.⁵

The share prices of both Meta and Alphabet have declined significantly over the past twelve months. We believe this is due to a combination of a weakening ad market, depreciation of foreign currencies, and increased competitive intensity. On the positive side, we anticipate each company to continue to generate significant amounts of free cashflow even during these challenging times, which we expect to be redeployed into a combination of growth projects and share buybacks.

The Fund had net risk exposure at the end of the third quarter of 68.4%, marginally lower (just 1%) than its exposure at the end of the second quarter. With the stocks having declined as much as they have, the nominal decrease in exposure belies the greater activity when you scratch below the surface. We added five new positions to the Fund and exited two in the quarter.

Conclusion

Individual stock price movement continues to generally be far greater than changes in underlying business fundamentals. We maintain focus on the latter, while seeking to take advantage of the former.

Respectfully submitted,

FPA Contrarian Value Portfolio Management Team
