Macro Overview

Major central banks appear to have reached the peak of their upward interest rate adjustments. The anticipation of slower economic growth and a moderation in prices is likely to mitigate the risks associated with further tightening of monetary policies. However, the commencement and pace of monetary easing will probably hinge on how swiftly economic activity and inflation respond to the economic challenges that are faced by most economies globally.

During their recent meeting, the South African Reserve Bank's (SARB) Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) decided to leave the repo rate unchanged at 8.25 percent. The decision to pause was unanimous and in line with surveyed expectations. Policy rates remained flat in the second half of the year, spurring expectations within the interest rate market of an imminent reduction in global policy rates.

The European overnight index swaps (OIS) currently indicate an expected reduction in the policy rate of 150 basis points (bps) over the next 12 months. Conversely, in the United States, the Fed funds futures suggest an anticipated decrease of 100 basis-points in the upcoming calendar year. Similarly, the local forward rate agreement (FRA) market in South Africa estimates interest rate reductions of a comparable magnitude to those projected in the United States.

In December, the 3-month JIBAR rate saw a rise of 0.3 basis points to 8.400, whereas the 12-month JIBAR rate increased by 12.5 basis points to 9.125 versus the previous month. Over the past year, the 3-month, and the 12-month JIBAR rates increased by 114 basis points and 44-basis points, respectively. These elevated JIBAR rates imply that money market funds are likely to generate a return of between 9 percent and 10 percent over the next 12 months with a minimal or negligible risk of capital loss

GROSS ESTIMATED YIELD

Gross Yield: means the sum of all expected income over the next 12-months from underlying instruments in the portfolio divided by the cumulative net asset value of the fund. The expected income amounts are approximate and based on market assumptions and forecasts. Actual returns may differ, based on changes in market values, interest rates and changes in costs experienced during the investment period.

MODIFIED DURATION

Modified duration measures how sensitive a bond's price is to a change in the interest rate level and follows the concept that interest rates and bond prices move in opposite directions. In other words, it estimates by how much, measured as '% change', you can expect a bond price to fall for every 1% increase in interest rates and vice versa. The weighted average modified duration collectively measures the total portfolio's sensitivity

DISCLAIMER

Unit trusts are generally medium to long-term investments. The value of your investment may go down as well as up. Past performance is not necessarily a guide to future performance. Nedgroup Investments does not guarantee the performance of your investment and even if forecasts about the expected future performance are included you will carry the investment and market risk, which includes the possibility of losing capital. Our funds are traded at ruling prices and can engage in borrowing and scrip lending.

Some funds may hold foreign securities including foreign CIS funds. As a result, the fund may face material risks, which could include foreign exchange risks, market conditions and macro-economic and political conditions.

A fund of funds may only invest in other funds, and a feeder fund may only invest in another single fund, both will have funds that levy their own charges, which could result in a higher fee structure.

The Nedgroup Investments Money Market Fund offering aims to maintain a constant price of 100 cents per unit. A money market fund is not a bank deposit. The total return to the investor is made up of interest received and any gain or loss made on any particular instrument held. In most cases the return will merely have the effect of increasing or decreasing the daily yield, but in an extreme case it can have the effect of a capital loss. Excessive withdrawals from the fund may place the fund under liquidity pressures and that in such circumstances a process of ring-fencing of withdrawal instructions and managed pay-outs over time may be followed. The yield is calculated using an annualised seven day rolling average as at the relevant dates provided for in the fund fact sheet. Nedgroup Investments has the right to close its funds to new investors in order to manage it more efficiently.
